"... the snow became so deep that it was impossible to proceed; ... and for the first time in the voyage I found myself discouraged;"...

"We dragged our weary and emaciated limbs along, until 10 o'clock. The doctor and myself who were in advance discovered some buffalo on the plain, when we left our loads, and orders on the snow, to proceed to the nearest woods to encamp. We went in pursuit of the buffalo, which were on the move.

The doctor who was then less reduced then myself, ran and got behind a hill and shot one down, … We then proceeded to butcher the one we had shot; and after procuring each of us a load of meat, we marched for the camp, the smoke of which was in view. MONEY SPENT AND PIKE'S BUDGET CUT by Allan Vainley

We would like to comment on two items we noticed when looking over costs of Expeditions around 1806. Item 1- Pike's Budget Cut- He received $2000 for the Mississippi R. Expedition & $600 for the SW Expedition Quite a cut!!!

The amount of money spent on various military expeditions in 1806 seems low. The value of today's dollar is much higher, of course*.

Pike was allowed to spend $2000 to travel to northern Minnesota from St. Louis in 1805-6 with 21 persons, but his budget was cut to $600 for the Southwest Expedition with 23 individuals in 1806-7. (Other expeditions were given larger amounts.)

When you consider that $180 of those $600 was spent on Scientific Instruments for the SW Exp. this leaves $420 or $18.26 per person, it is little wonder that Pike was ill-equipped on his second expedition.

Looking at the list of items which had to be purchased for $420- clothing, tents, weapons and ammunition, trade goods, and other items, I would have a hard time with the budget in dollars in those days.

Here is a list of items mentioned in Pike's Journal:

Clothing

Cap, Gorget, Uniform coat/uniform (cotton), Pants, Breech cloths, Leggings, Socks, Blankets cut for socks, Boots and moccasins, Boots (raw buffalo hide made into shoes), Leather

Shelter

Tent, Blankets

Scientific Instruments- $180 worth

Spy glass, Telescope and tripod, Sextant, Compass, Theodolite, Reaumur thermometer Weapons

Guns- (.69 caliber musket, some with bayonets), two-barreled shotgun, rifle, pistols, ammunition (powder, lead for balls, cartridges), Swords

Trade Goods

Peace medals, US flags

Tools

Broad axes and tomahawks, rope, other tools (Mention of Saws is not found in Pike's Journal) Other items

Boat (most were made in the field), horses, whiskey, writing materials, books and tables, Bible, canteens, medicines, fire starters, other not mentioned.

Item #2- Wilkinson complained that he was not given his fair amount of provisions when Wilkinson went down the Arkansas R and Pike up, from Great Bend, KS.

a. Clothing- Most of the men were making their own.

b. Ammunition

Wilkinson- with 5 men 19 lbs. powder, 39 lbs. of lead/ball & 48 cartridges.

Pike- with 16 men 35 lbs. powder, 40 lbs. of lead/ball & 120 cartridges.

Do the math- Wilkinson got 11% more powder and 5% more cartridges per man.

This left Pike with only 45 rounds for each man, for food and protection during the rest of his SW Expedition. * 1806 dollar= $19.49 today

 Lewis and Clark got $2500 from Congress & President Jefferson

FEDERAL [EGISLATION REINTRODUCED

Senator Bennet has reintroduced the Pike bill in the US Senate likely on the day of our Annual Meeting hoping for inclusion in an Omnibus Bill. The legislations would permit a Feasibility Study for our National Trail.

CAÑON CITY STOCKADE PAINTING AVAILABLE

From Dec. 5-9, 1806 and Dec. 31 - Jan. 14; Lieutenant Zebulon Montgomery Pike and his small command of men camped near the mouth of the Royal Gorge (current names). They constructed stockades to cache their equipment on the north side of the Arkansas River (at about where US 50 turns north on the west side of Canon City). Here they left two men to care for horses and to guard. From there they road north up into South Park, then to near Leadville, then descended past the Royal Gorge before leaving for the Sangre de Cristo Mountains, the Sand Dunes, and near Alamosa, Colorado. The areas they were exploring would become 11 of the central states of the United States of America many years later.
